public health leadership - Jones & Bartlett Learning

Transposing leadership into a public health setting, Rowitz (2014, p. 6-11) identifies and describes 16 Principles of Public Health Leadership. These principles assist in understanding the role of public health leaders and how the setting of public health requires additional attributes. However, in conclusion, Rowitz states that whilst there are differences between being a business leader and a public health leader, " Leadership is leadership no matter what system you are in " (p. 14).
